Elections to the Council and the Board of Scrutiny

5 October 2022

This Notice sets out information on elections to fill vacancies on the Council and on the Board of Scrutiny, together with the nomination procedure and election timetable that will apply to both elections.

Elections to the Council

The Acting Vice-Chancellor gives notice that an election is to be held to appoint eight members of the University Council for four years from 1 January 2023. Members are to be elected in the following classes under Statute A IV 2:

- (a) two from among the Heads of Colleges;
- (b) two from among the Professors, Readers and Professors (Grade 11);¹
- (c) four from among the other members of the Regent House.

The Council is the principal executive and policy-making body of the University. It has general responsibility for the administration of the University, for defining its mission, for the planning of its work, and for the management of its resources. The Council deals with relations between the University and the Colleges, and conducts negotiations with outside bodies on many matters (other than those relating directly to the educational and research programmes of the University, which are dealt with on its behalf by the General Board of the Faculties). It is responsible for the appointment or nomination of certain members of internal and external bodies, and for many student matters (excluding undergraduate admissions, which is a College concern). Further information about the Council is available to members of the University on the Council website (<https://www.governance.cam.ac.uk/committees/council/>). Questions about its work can be addressed to the Registry by emailing registry@admin.cam.ac.uk.

The University is committed to equality, which includes supporting and encouraging all under-represented groups, promoting an inclusive culture, and valuing diversity. Nominations from groups that are under-represented on the Council are welcomed.

Reasons for serving on the Council

The Council of the University of Cambridge is one of the few principal bodies in the higher education sector with a majority of members elected from internal constituencies; most equivalent bodies are made up predominantly of external members. The Council draws its strength from the expertise, engagement, and scrutiny of its members – those elected in the classes noted above as well as its external and student members. It is key to the continuing success of the University that elections to the Council attract strong candidates who are willing to share their knowledge and commit their time for the benefit of the University as a whole.

Duties and responsibilities of Council members

The University is both an exempt charity,² and a corporation established by common law. Council members are therefore both charity trustees of the University and, effectively, its corporate directors. They have associated legal responsibilities and duties, including the promotion of the interests of the University and acting with integrity, care, and prudence. Under regulatory guidance, Council members must be ‘fit and proper persons’.³ It is important for candidates to recognise and accept the obligations that Council membership would confer upon them.

The Handbook for Members of the Council sets out the Council’s primary responsibilities and provides advice and guidance to members of Council on their legal and other responsibilities. Members of the Council are expected to attend all meetings of the Council. Members will not normally be able to take more than one term of leave during their period on the Council and may instead carry forward their leave entitlement. Potential nominees might wish to familiarise themselves with the key aspects of the University’s Statutes and Ordinances (<https://www.admin.cam.ac.uk/univ/so/>), and the most recent Budget Reports, Annual Reports and Financial Statements.⁴

Further useful information is provided by the Office for Students (<https://www.officeforstudents.org.uk/advice-and-guidance/regulation/>) and the Charity Commission (<https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/the-essential-trustee-what-you-need-to-know-cc3>). This information includes details of the extent of a charity trustee’s personal liability. Instances of personal liability are rare and unlikely to occur, providing trustees act honestly, prudently, in good faith, in the best interests of the University, and in compliance with legislation and the University’s governing documents.

¹ The addition to this sub-section of a reference to Clinical Professors, approved by Grace 2 of 9 March 2022, remains subject to the approval of His Majesty in Council. Pending that approval, Clinical Professors, as members of the Regent House, are eligible for election to the Council in class (c).

² The University has charitable status but is exempt from the statutory requirement which otherwise obliges a charity to register with the Charity Commission. The Office for Students is the principal regulator of the University as regards its compliance with its legal obligations in exercising control and management of its administration as a charity.

³ For a full definition of ‘fit and proper persons’, see: <https://www.officeforstudents.org.uk/advice-and-guidance/regulation/registration-with-the-ofs-a-guide/public-interest-governance-principles/>.

Election to the Board of Scrutiny

The Acting Vice-Chancellor gives notice of an election to one casual vacancy on the Board of Scrutiny in class (c)(i) (a person who has been a member of the Regent House for not more than ten years on 1 October 2022) under Statute A VII, following the decision of Mr Flynn to step down from 31 October 2022. The person elected would serve from 1 November until 30 September 2023, the remainder of Mr Flynn's term.

The Board of Scrutiny consists of:

- (a) the Proctors;
- (b) the two Pro-Proctors nominated by the Colleges;
- (c) eight members of the Regent House elected by the Regent House.

Under the provisions of Statute A VII 4, no person may be a member of the Board of Scrutiny who is a member of the Council, the General Board, or the Finance Committee of the Council, or who holds any of the University offices of Chancellor, Vice-Chancellor, Pro-Vice-Chancellor, University Advocate, Deputy University Advocate, Registry, Assistant Registry, or Secretary of a School. The Statute further prohibits from membership holders of offices with primarily administrative duties designated by Ordinance: Directors and Deputy Directors in the Unified Administrative Service and Assistant Treasurers have been designated as such prohibited offices. A retiring member of the Board who has served for four or more consecutive years is not eligible to serve again as a member in class (c) until one year has elapsed after the end of her or his previous period of service.

If no nominations are received in accordance with the timetable below, the Council shall be asked whether it wishes to appoint a member to the vacant place or for another election to be held, in accordance with Regulation 3 of the regulations for the election of members of the Board (Statutes and Ordinances, 2021, p. 120).

The University is committed to a proactive approach to equality, which includes supporting and encouraging all under-represented groups, promoting an inclusive culture and valuing diversity. Nominations from groups that are under-represented on the Board of Scrutiny are welcomed.

Further information about the Board of Scrutiny can be found in the Statutes and Ordinances as noted above, on the Board's website (<https://www.scrutiny.cam.ac.uk/about>), and obtained from Professor Richard Mortier, Chair of the Board (email: richard.mortier@cl.cam.ac.uk).

Council and Board of Scrutiny nomination procedure and election timetable

In order to be eligible, candidates for election are asked to send their nominations to the Acting Vice-Chancellor, to be received not later than 12 noon on Friday, 11 November 2022. The Acting Vice-Chancellor asks candidates to address their nominations to the Registry by email including electronic signatures to Registry@admin.cam.ac.uk. The nomination (which can be made on a form available on the governance site)⁵ should include (a) a statement signed by two members of the Regent House, nominating the candidate for election and specifying the class in which the candidate is nominated, and (b) a statement signed by the candidate confirming consent to be nominated. The candidate is also required to provide a personal statement by the same date (see below). No-one may be nominated for election in more than one class. Two periods of four years should normally be regarded as the maximum length of continuous service for elected members of the Council.

In accordance with the regulations governing the election (Statutes and Ordinances, 2021, p. 118), those standing for election should send to the Registry, by 12 noon on Friday, 11 November 2022, a statement in support of their nomination, which will be provided to voters. Each statement should be no more than 500 words in length and should cover the following points:

- the candidate's present position in the University;
- previous posts held, whether in Cambridge or in other universities or outside the university system, with dates;
- the candidate's reasons for standing for election, and the experience and skills they would bring to the role;
- a note of the candidate's particular interests within the field of University business.

The complete list of nominations will be published in the Reporter on Wednesday, 16 November 2022.

If an election is contested, it will be conducted by ballot under the Single Transferable Vote regulations. Online voting will open at 10 a.m. on Friday, 25 November 2022 and close at 5 p.m. on Monday, 5 December 2022. Hardcopy voting papers and supporting materials will be distributed not later than Friday, 25 November 2022 to those who opt by 2 November 2022 to vote on paper (see p. 31); the last date for the return of voting papers is 5 p.m. on Monday, 5 December 2022.

⁵ Nomination forms are available at

<https://www.governance.cam.ac.uk/committees/council/Documentspublic/CouncilNominationFormMT2022.pdf> and <https://www.governance.cam.ac.uk/governance/key-bodies/Documents/BoSNominationFormMT2022.pdf>.

Changes to Regent House membership: Consent of the Colleges

Following the approval of Grace 1 of 3 November 2021 by ballot, there are two changes to the membership of the Regent House that affect the Colleges and which therefore, in accordance with Statute A III 11(b), require the consent of the Colleges. Those two changes are to add College Chaplains and part-time College Lecturers to those who qualify for Regent House membership (see paragraph 8 of the Report: Reporter, 6632, 2021–22, p. 47).

The Registry has received confirmation from all 31 Colleges that they have consented to these changes. College Chaplains and part-time College Lecturers are therefore to be included on the Roll with effect from 5 November 2022 (see below).

Regent House membership: 14 October 2022 deadline for corrections to the Roll

The draft Roll of the Regent House for the 2022–23 academic year (i.e. the list of names proposed to be placed on the Roll when it is promulgated in November) was published within Reporter Special No. 1 on 1 October 2022 (see <https://www.admin.cam.ac.uk/reporter/2022-23/special/01/section2.shtml>).

The draft Roll is based on data derived from CHRIS, the University's HR database and takes account of the provisions on membership contained in the University's Statutes and Ordinances. Some significant changes to the eligibility criteria for membership of the Regent House come into effect this year, including the move to a grade-based model (Grade 9+) for University staff following the approval of Grace 1 of 3 November 2021. The collated provisions on membership of the Regent House, effective for the November 2022 Roll are available at <https://www.reporter.admin.cam.ac.uk/files/rh-membership-provisions-nov2022.pdf> (see also the Notice above).

Current and prospective members of the Regent House are asked to check the draft Roll and membership provisions and to make sure that their entries are correct. Notice of any corrections or amendments should be sent by email to the Registry via University.Draftsman@admin.cam.ac.uk as soon as possible; any corrections received by 12 noon on Friday, 14 October 2022 will be incorporated in the definitive Roll, which is to be promulgated on 5 November this year.

The Roll promulgated on 5 November 2022 constitutes the list of eligible voters for elections to the Council or Board of Scrutiny and any ballots of the Regent House that may be called during the year¹ until the promulgation of the next Roll in November 2023. Once promulgated, the November 2022 Roll cannot be changed and corrections, amendments or additions are not permitted.

Ballots of the Regent House

Online voting is the default voting method in ballots of the Regent House. On the occasion of a ballot, those on the Roll of the Regent House (see above) will receive an email alert shortly after voting opens, containing links to the ballot information on the governance site and to the voting portal.

If members wish to receive, or to continue to receive, hardcopy voting papers and supporting materials, they should submit a request to opt out of online voting by 5 p.m. on Wednesday, 2 November 2022. Requests to receive hardcopy voting materials should be sent by email to ballots@admin.cam.ac.uk, and include confirmation of the voter's CRSid and the College or Departmental postal address to which voting materials should be sent. Requests to opt out received by the 2 November deadline will be effective until the promulgation of the Roll in November 2023.

ACTA

Congregation of the Regent House on Saturday, 1 October 2022

A Congregation of the Regent House was held in the Senate-House at 9.55 a.m. for the election of the Proctors and Deputy Proctors and the admission of the Pro-Proctors for 2022–23. After the Congregation had been dissolved, the Acting Vice-Chancellor administered, in the presence of a deputy for the Registry, the oath required by the Universities Act 1825 to the University Constables. He then delivered an address to the University.

JOHN KENNETH FAWCETT, of Churchill College, and MARK STEPHEN SMITH, of Clare College, retired from the office of Proctor and surrendered the insignia of their office to the Acting Vice-Chancellor.

SEBASTIAN LEONARD DUNDAS FALK, of Girton College, and MARK EDWARD PURCELL, of Pembroke College, were elected to the office of Proctor for the year 2022–23, were admitted to that office by the Acting Vice-Chancellor, and took up the insignia of their office.

ANDREW CHARLES HAMMOND, of St John's College, and CHARLES PHILIP READ, of Corpus Christi College, were admitted to the office of Pro-Proctor for the year 2022–23.

JOHN KENNETH FAWCETT, of Churchill College, MARK STEPHEN SMITH, of Clare College, SASKIA MONIQUE MURK JANSSEN, of Peterhouse, and GEMMA LUCY BURGESS, of St Edmund's College, were elected as Deputy Proctors for the year 2022–23 and made their public declaration in accordance with Statute C IV 3.

ACTING VICE-CHANCELLOR'S ADDRESS TO THE UNIVERSITY ON SATURDAY, 1 OCTOBER 2022

The Acting Vice-Chancellor, Dr Anthony Freeling, delivered the following address:

Colleagues, students, alumni.

The election and admission of the proctors at a Congregation of the Regent House mark the beginning of our academic calendar.

So, too, in recent years, does the Vice-Chancellor's Address to the University.

However, I believe that for the first time in our University's history the annual Address is being delivered by an Acting Vice-Chancellor.

To be asked to step into the Vice-Chancellor's role, is humbling – and daunting.

The scale of the role is made no less overwhelming by the knowledge that I am here for only a relatively brief period of time. I therefore stand before you today in great humility.

I am delighted that Council has recommended to the Regent House the appointment of Professor Deborah Prentice as the University's next Vice-Chancellor and, assuming she is approved by the Regent House, she intends to take up the role in nine months.

As my tenure will be short, so too – you will be relieved to hear – will be my address.

My aim is simple: to reassure you that the transition between Professor Stephen Toope and Professor Prentice is underway. I have been using the analogy of a relay race to explain the approach we are taking. The aim is to get the baton from Stephen to Debbie as smoothly as possible. That means three distinct phases – I need to get hold of the baton, then to make the greatest possible progress, and finally to pass the baton on. Success in my role, as in the relay race, lies as much in the quality of the baton changes as in what I might do during my time in post.

The first stage is already complete. Stephen has been incredibly generous with his time in helping me understand the context in which we find ourselves, the plans that are in place and the opportunities and challenges we face. I thank him for that generosity.

We have far more than that to thank him for, however. He leaves us with the legacy of a collegiate university that is more open to diverse talent than ever; more financially transparent; more determined to rise to the challenge of climate change.

A collegiate university that has recently concluded its most successful development campaign, raising £2.2 billion in vital philanthropic funds to attract the finest minds and give them the resources they need; a collegiate university that is clearer and more confident about how it engages with the world; a collegiate university that is about to begin an exciting new partnership to bring more than 1,000 young African scholars to Cambridge; a collegiate university that is more aware of – and more committed to supporting – student mental health; a collegiate university that is unequivocally committed to academic freedom and freedom of expression; a collegiate university that is... well... more collegial than it has ever been.

Thank you, Stephen, for your transformative vision for Cambridge; for your determination to make our University even greater; for steering collegiate Cambridge safely through some of the most challenging times any of us have known. And thank you, on a personal level to you and Paula for being such good friends to my wife Laurel and me.

Phase 2 starts today, with me firmly holding the baton. What and how will we progress?

What will we focus on delivering, and how will we go about it?

I see my responsibility as continuing to advance the University's mission, which is:

To contribute to society through the pursuit of education, learning and research at the highest international levels of excellence.

That final word, excellence, is what I will focus on.

During my tenure as Acting Vice-Chancellor, academic excellence will be our touchstone. Whatever choices the University has to make, whatever policies the University seeks to adopt, we should ask: 'Is this something that one of the world's great universities should do to enhance its academic excellence?'

That must be the test.

But Cambridge is multifaceted, so there will be different views about what academic excellence means in the context of our University's many different activities.

- What does academic excellence mean in research: to academics, to their students and trainees, to their departments, to their Schools, to their Colleges and overall to the entire collegiate University?
- What does academic excellence mean for the activities of our professional staff as they support those endeavours?
- What does academic excellence mean in teaching and learning?
- What does it mean in further and online education, or in publishing and assessment?

We have to ask: how will this particular choice, how will that particular activity, enhance our academic excellence? And in particular, are we investing enough in our people so they are inspired to work here to achieve this excellence? We need to be confident we have the resources and time to implement what we choose. And if, or more likely when, we disagree, I will work diligently to bring people together to take the time to understand each other's perspectives and to reach a decision that we then enact.

Academic excellence is the touchstone. Success, however, depends not just on what you are trying to achieve, but on how you go about it.

The experience of the pandemic has taught us how important it is for all our moving parts to operate in concert – and indeed, how much can be achieved when we do.

In times of challenge – and the months ahead will certainly be challenging in many ways, not least as we make the necessary adjustments to help our communities cope with the country's cost of living crisis – I will work across collegiate Cambridge to help us pull together and achieve this shared purpose, building further on the advances we have already made in coordinating our complex ecosystem.

Whether addressing climate change, the cost of living or student wellbeing, the central University, the academic departments, and the colleges must work more closely than ever, and we must collaborate more effectively than ever.

In short, working collaboratively to enhance Cambridge's academic excellence will be the guiding principle of my time in office, and my unrelenting focus, before handing over the baton to my successor.

That third phase, handing over to the next Vice-Chancellor, is critically important to achieving our mission. I will work with Debbie to ensure she has what she needs to receive the baton. We will work together as she develops her ideas for the leadership she wishes to bring to Cambridge. That will enable me to hand over not just responsibility but also give her the information that will help her hit the ground running. That will be key to ensuring the transition from Stephen to Debbie is truly effective.

Three phases, then: getting hold of the baton, making the greatest possible progress while in post, and then passing on the baton.

I'd like to conclude though, with one final plea.

Of course, steering this great university, and keeping it on course, cannot possibly depend on a single individual. It is the richness and diversity of talent in our collegiate university environment that makes Cambridge unique.

And the things we want to achieve, we can only achieve together.

Students, scholars and professional staff employed by the University and by the Colleges support our mission; our extraordinary alumni, dispersed around the globe, support our mission; the University's Press and Assessment teams in Cambridge and beyond support our mission.

We are united in our aspirations, and in our collective enterprise.

Together, we form an extraordinary community who come together for the greater benefit of the whole.

We take great pride in being a self-governing community of scholars. We place great stock in protecting academic freedom. And we make great efforts to embed freedom of expression.

The University's governance relies ultimately on members of its Regent House engaging, discussing and voting on the issues that matter most to them.

But participation in the University's democratic life has been, for as long as I've observed it, fairly limited.

Discussions on some of the great issues of the day – from retirement age to freedom of speech, from the management of sport to the management of our estate – have often been left to a small minority of Regent House members who feel strongly enough to mobilise and vote.

I have made this point repeatedly as a member of Council, and today I make it as Acting Vice-Chancellor:

Our democratic systems of governance require widespread participation. When important votes come to the Regent House, my plea is for each of you who is a member of Regent House to engage in the debates, and then to use your vote.

It is your democratic right, and a democratic duty.

If you vote, whichever way you vote, we will then know that the direction of the University is indeed a collective endeavour.

I ask this of all of you now so when I complete my time in office, brief though it may be, the University of Cambridge will be stronger, more aligned and more collaborative than ever.

Thank you.
